ATTACHES HIS RED AUTO, THE PRICE OF HIS EXCHANGE SEAT. and Whatever Attachable There Was in His omce Mrs. Lyman Wont Tell Where Her Husband Is - Charles F. Stewart Wants

$26,550 for Worthless Zinc Stock He Holds. An attachment against the property of Dr. John Grant Lyman, the International Zinc ompany, was issued yesterday by the Sueme Court in an action brought by Charles Stewart to recover $26,550 from Lyman. harles S. Hartwell and the company. The attachment was procured on allegations that yman in either concealing his person or has departed from the State in order to defraud creditors.

Lawyer Felix H. Levy, acting for Mr. Stewart, and Deputy Sheriff Prendergast, armed with the attachments, made a series of visits of which the first was at about 11 o'clock, upon Secretary William McClure of the New York Stock Exchange. They served notice upon Mr. McClure attaching the proceeds of the sale of the Stock Exchange seat of or, Lyman, amounting to $52,000. Mr.

McClure said to them: I will turn this matter over to our attorneys, and you will hear from them." Thence the lawyer and the deputy sheriff travelled to 7 East Twenty-eighth street, where they attached the red automobile of French make in which the doctor was acustomed to disport himself. The machine, in the opinion of Mr. Prendergast, is worth From this point a descent upon the doctor's brokerage office at 52 Broadway was made. In the office were found the doctor's manager, two typewriter girls, a bookkeeper and a small office boy, all trying bard to do nothing in particular. No one among this office force evinced any excitement. The force was asked to vacate, which it did. The deputy sheriff, after securing the key of the office from the superintendent of the building, locked the door. He tacked his business card upon the door, to indicate that he was in charge and then he went away.

Stewart alleges that Lyman and Hartwell who were members of the firm of Joshua Brown & Co., Albert C. Foster and John B carmichael of Omaha conspired to advance the price of the shares of the company by false reports of its solvency and earnings and the amount and value of its property and the amount and value of its property. Their purpose, he says, was to cause the public to buy at prices beyond the value of the shares. As the result of faise statements made by them to Barrow, Wade. Guthrie & Co., public accountants, it is alleged, a report was issued which stated that between March and October, 1898, Joshua Brown & Co. had vereived as carnings from the "Free Coinage" faine $45,833, while the expenses of operating the mine were but $16,007. Plaintiff says this report was false and that it was known the mine were but $16,007. Plaintiff says this report was false and that it was known to the defendants to be talse when they caused it to be issued. As the result of these mis-representations, the plaintiff says, he paid $1,550 for stock in the Zinc Company, which he says is worthless.

He sues for this money and to recover $25,000 on an assigned claim of Julius Leszynsky, who received $25,000 of alleged worthless stock for services in forming the company.

Felix H. Levy, attorney for Stewart, avers Felix H. Levy, attorney for Stewart, avers that he tried to serve the papers in the case on Lyman and called at his office and at his residence, 117 West Fifty-seventh street. At the office he was informed that Mr Lyman had gone out of town and it was not known when he would return. At his house Lyman's wife said that Lyman was out of town. She would not give his address, but she offered to forward any letters to him. She referred the lawyer to Lyman's counsel, John J. Vause. Mr. Vause refused to tell where Lyman is it has been previously represented that Lyman had gone out of town with his wife on account of her health.

Harry H. Kutner, who sought to serve papers in this case, averred that at Lyman's office he was informed by an office boy that on last Wednesday Lyman was at the office, but after taking something out of a box he went away. Among the persons at the time in the office looking for Lyman was a man who said: "Lyman has played his best friends."

SHERIFF AFTER DR. LYMAN. SAYS HE TURNED THE HOSE ON HER He Declares She Was Too Fond of a Profess of Phrenology.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., March 25 .- Papers were filed to-day in the divorce proceedings of Thomas Lindsey, a furniture dealer of this city, against his wife, Mrs. Emma Lindsey. Mrs. Lindsey is suing her husband for a separation. She is represented by Platt & Thompson of White Plains. Lindsey answers through his attorney, R. McKinley Power, asking for an absolute divorce on the statutory grounds. The divorce proceedings, it is believed, are the result of the recent arrest of Lindsey, who was accused by his wife of entering a hotel where she is staying and creating a sensation in the dining room by attempting to take forcible possession of their twelve-year-old daughter. Florence, Lindsey was tried and acquitted of this charge in the local police to the store. When the clerk reported to Lindsey that his wife had said she was too ill to comply, she declares that he turned a powerful stream from a garden hose on her through a window and nearly drowned her in her bed.

Mrs. Lindsey also alleges that her husband locked her out of the house one night and that she had to get a stepladder and break a window to get in. Then she alleges that Lindsey broke down the door of her bedroom with an axe and forced her and the little girl to go out in the street at night scantily clad. According to the affidavit they took refuge in a hotel. Lindsey, through his counsel, denies all his wife's charges. He accuses her of adultery with "Prof." Charles H. Clark, a phrenologist. He alleges Clark and his wife were enthusiastic on the subject of phrenology and physiognomy and that they took lessons in New York, which Mrs. Lindsey paid for. In August, 1895, Lindsey alleges his wife and Clark went away together and gave exhibitions at Cairo, this State. Several hand bills announcing their entertainments will be shown at the trial. On theseit is announced that "Prof. Clark and Prof. Emma Lindsey will read the past and future in Room No. 8 at the Jennings Hotel:" The Lindseys were married in Christ Church, London, England, on June 7, 1887.

BROTHER DRIVES HER TO POLICE STA TION AND ASKS FOR HELP. She Fights Furiously for Her Liberty and Begs Capt. Kear to Protect Her Came on From

Washington and Caused a Stir Among the Guests in the Grenoble Hotel. A cab drove up to the West Sixty-eighth next minute the station door opened and a man shouted in:

"I want an officer quick. I've got my sister must have something done with her." The sergeant called Policeman Trainor and the latter hustled out after the man. Trainor went up to the cab and to the woman inside

he said "Won't you please step out, madam?" The woman said "Certainly," and got out as though to take his arm. Instead she darted under it and ran screaming up the street. Trainor and the brother ran after her. They caught her at the corner and then they had a hard fight. The woman was becomingly dressed. She got down in the gutter and fought with all her might. All the time she kept shouting "Murder! Save a poor woman! My brother wants to murder me!" She had to be carried into the station. The man who was with her told the sergeant that she was Mrs. Mary McEwan, and that she was the wife of Arthur McEwan of Lawrence Park, Bronxville. His sister, he said, was 34 years old. Just at this minute Capt. Kear entered and the her, ran to him. "Why am I made to suffer like this?" she demanded.

Capt. Kear asked the brother for an explanation. He said he was Frank S. Reid, a jeweller of 52 West Sixty-lifth street. This is planation He said he was Frank S Reid, a jeweller of 52 West Sixty-lifth street. This is what he said in substance:

"My sister has been living in Washington and yesterday I got a telegram from her asking me to meet her last night at the Pennsylvania. Railrond station at Jersey City. I met my sister and was surprised that her husband was not with her. I took her to the Grenoble Hotel for the might. This morning she came to my office and I invited her home to dinner. After dinner she became suddenly violent and began to throw dishes around. I concluded the best thing was to get her here as quick as I could."

On Reid's promise to appear as complainant against his sister the captain called an ambulance and had her taken to Bellevue for examination. It was only by the greatest coaxing that she could be induced to enter the ambulance and all the while she kept asking the police to protect her from her brother.

At the Grenoble it was said last night that the woman had had a suite of rooms there the night before and that she had a lot of trunks come on from Washington. Yesterday morning she caused some excitement among the guests by rushing up to the clerk and teiling him that ever yone must get out of the hotel at once. The cierk quieted her and was thinking about calling an ambulance when a woman whom he did not know took her out. She did not return he said:

SMELTING DECISION THURSDAY.

Arguments on Minority's Injunction Heard by Court of Errors and Appeals.

TRENTON, N. J. March 25 - The suit of the minority stockholders of the American Smelting and Refining Company to restrain the company from increasing its capital stock from $65,000,000 to $100,000,000 and from acquiring the properties of M. Guggenheim & Sons was argued before the Court of Errors and Appeals to-day

Edward Lauterbach of New York and R. V. Lindabury of Elizabeth represented the minority stockholders, and Samuel Untermyer and Thomas B Thacher of New York woman, breaking away from those who head and William H. Corbin of Jersey City appeared for the company. It was announced at the conclusion of the argument that the court would meet in general conference and decide the case next. Thursday morning. Mr. Lindabury who opened the argument for the complainants contended that the evidence showed that the Guggenheim property and cash to be acquired by the defendant company under the scheme in question have an actual or market value exceeding $22,000,000 or at the utmost $20,800,000. He contended that the actual value was not taken into account in the negotiations. The contention that the purchase would be beneficial to the defendant company and that it is approved by a large majority of the stockholders is without significance, he said. Mr. Untermyer argued that none of the legal propositions contended for by the complainants has the remotest application to the facts of the case nor was there a single disputed case of law or of fact involved. Incontradicted proofs offered by the Smelting company show that the property and business are worth $45,200,000. Mr. Untermyer then devoted his attention to showing that the market value of the stock is no test of its real value. "Will the court say," he asked, "that the stock market price of the business in question which fluctuates as much as $18,000,000 in a few days upon mere rumor is to be taken as the value of the property, as against the at the conclusion of the argument that the which fluctuates as much as $15,000,000 in a few days upon mere rumor is to be taken as the value of the property as against the statements under eath of all the practical men in the business fortified by the details of business and earning power?" Mr. Thacher devoted his time to a discussion of the legal points involved and to the question of whether the proposed purchase violates the forty-ninth section of the Corporations act.

ENGEL BALL A RED SUCCESS.

PUSHCART PEDLERS OBEY THE ORDER FOR FULL DRESS. Some Wore Rubber Roots and All Smiled When the Ducks Quacked Max Hochstim Per mitted to Lead Grand March as a Rebuke to the Prying Methods of the Fifteen. Tammany Hall resounded until dawn this forning with the singing of canary birds, the quacking of geese and ducks, the clinking of glasses, the popping of champagne corks, and the laughter of débuntantes and matrons from the upper social circles of "De Ate" Assembly district, the occasion being the annual ball of the Martin Engel Association It was the swellest function ever held by the association, experts declared. There was a marked difference between this ball and the ball held last year. This was explained by the recent social upheavals in De Ate which cut down the attendance this year, thus making the affair more select. The hall was elaborately decorated with bunting. set off by potted plants, evergreens, rose bushes and rubber plants from which glimmered a flock of incandescent red lights. Red was the predominating color. The guests wore red carnations and red roses and red calcium lights beamed on the dancers.

"This is indeed a red letter night for us," said Rosey the lawyer, as he surveyed the scene from the stage. As a special mark of onfidence in the Hon. Max Hochstim and a rebuke to the Committee of Fifteen who pried into his private business on Saturday night, he was allowed to lead the grand march and the Hon Martin Engel with the chivalry for which he is noted took second place in line Hochstim was cheered again and again.

line. Hochstim was cheered again and again. Three hundred pushcart pediers who had tickets for the affair thrust upon them tried in a measure to obey the order for evening dress. Some of them wore rubber boots, tan shoes, canvas slippers and sweaters with their dress suits, and although Harry J. Goldsmith, chairman of the Committee on Dress, objected, they were allowed to go in the grand march.

The grees and duck decorations were provided by Charlie Kramer as a mark of respect to the pediers. Fiddles Finkelstein of the ostracized set had charge of them and carried out one of Kramer's happy ideas. As soon as a crowd of bewhiskered pediers made their appearance at the head of the main stars. Fiddles poked the grees and ducks with a pole and their squawking caused broad smiles among the pediers.

"Ach, mein Gott, how peantiful undt natural!" remarked Muskey, Freeident of the Pushcart Protection Legion. Before the dancing began Rosey the lawyer gave fresh orders to the bouncing committee to see that the rule against spitting tobacco juice on the floor was enforced. and Mr. Herr responded by delivering a sermon on Sunday evening that caused a for his text these words: "When the righteous are in authority the about Sunday dance halls:

people rejoice, but when the wicked beareth rule the people mourn. The beauty of the city was described and the minister said he did not believe, as some do that the best people are in Yantic cometery and that the highest forms of morality and religion have passed away with the men and women of other days. He spoke highly of the prosecuting agent, but said on account of his close connection with the largest liquor dealers in town he is only a largest liquor dealers in town he is only a figurehead. Dr. Herr said he had wondered whom this city belonged to. He had come to the conclusion that it is the property of two wholesale liquor dealers. They have autocrats' power, he said. There is not a saloon opened in Norwich, he declared, without their knowledge or consent. From present indications he charged that they control the authorities from the Common Council to the City Court. He added:

No official land appears to be raised against authorities from the Common Council to the City Court. He added:

"No official hand appears to be raised against them. The time has come to call a halt. We listen sometimes in our churches to lectures on Mormonism and lift our hands in holy horror at the awful picture portrayed on the canvas of our thought. Yet we have just as glaring humerality in our own city. There are establishments kept up in Norwich as open, brazen and shameless as if we lived in Sait Lake City. These establishments are owned by persons in high commercial standing who are elected by professed christian business men to places of honor and trust in banking houses and other important positions and yet they are as vile moral lepers as was ever Brigham Young. The Christian men who vote to clevate such persons to positions of trust are verily guilty of a great moral wrong to the young men of the sity and to the high and sacred chastity of our Christian womanhood.

"While on this subject I wish to say that the privilege of permitting the old and young men to stand on our sidewalks and compel the noble, chaste wives and daughters to run the gantlet through these files of vulgar, foil-mouthed creatures, is a moral cutrage to decome. Why is it not abated?"

Among the coursegation listening to the pastor's words was Mayor Charle F. Thaver, who recently caused surprise in the City Council by declaring the people in the town of Norwich were dead. He said that outside

They will have to be separated, not alone at Coney Island, but everywhere else. There is to be no drinking in these places on Sunday, and I might also say neither will it be permitted in concert halls. Sacred concerts, of course, have come to be tolerated as something within the law. That is, provided there is no shifting of scenery and the performers appear in street clothing."
